

LATHE LAMP FLOOR

The Mater Lathe Lamp is a contemporary and sculptural piece of luminaire designed by the Danish architects Jesper K. Thomsen and Sanne Traberg. The body and legs of the lamp is turned in wood after old crafts traditions. The name of the lamp (Lathe) refers to the small turning tool the craftsmen uses when making the body and legs. The oak wood is FSC certified with a shade in black linen. The wire is mounted alongside the pole using small rubber rings (included).
